

Religions Texas: Mapping Diversity

A CONSULTATION AT
THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN
JANUARY 26-27, 2017

The University of Texas Department of Religious Studies and the Institute for Diversity and Civic Life are launching a research initiative to digitally map and document the religious diversity of Texas. To kick off this project, we are convening scholars of religion and culture for a dynamic conversation about documenting religions, digital and public humanities, and religious literacy that will develop the conceptual foundation for a publicly engaging and sustainable digital resource on religious diversity in Texas.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 26, 6PM, GLICKMAN CENTER, CLA 1.302E

KEYNOTE TALK

"MAPPING RELIGION IN A POSTSECULAR LANDSCAPE"

Tracy Fessenden, Professor of Religious Studies, Arizona State University

FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 8AM - 5PM, CLA 0.102

ROUNDTABLES

8am Coffee & Introductions

8:30 am Roundtable 1: The Study of Religion in Texas

10:15 am Roundtable 2: Mapping Religion & Digital Humanities

noon Lunch on-site

1 pm Roundtable 3: Religious Literacy, Pedagogy, & Public Humanities

3:45 pm Synthesis and Closing Remarks

RSVP here:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/religions-texas-mapping-diversity-tickets-29233846221>

